

NORTHWEST PACIFIC TYPHOON FORECAST UPDATE

In its July update, BHRC-led Tropical Storm Risk anticipates a slightly above-average Northwest Pacific typhoon season. Twenty-eight tropical storms are predicted for the NW Pacific basin as a whole, with 18 of these being typhoons and ten of these achieving intense typhoon status. To access the full seasonal forecast document please click on: <http://forecast.mssl.ucl.ac.uk/docs/TSRNWPFforecastJul2005.pdf>